

These regulations are a perfect example of corporate America taking over free America. Increasingly, our rights are stripped away to enhance the rights of already all too powerful corporations. These regulations will hinder, if not completely strip the ability of Amateur Radio operators to create new digital modes of communication, or modify existing modes to operate more efficiently. Amateurs like myself have long been responsible for the genesis of new digital modes of communications, but I see this trend screeching to a halt with the enactment of these restrictions. Please place the freedom of the public over the greed of major corporations. It is the very ideal that this country was founded upon.
